

The new Homelite 650.
It's not only better
for your health.
It's also better
for your wealth.

The new Homelite 650 is a product of advanced engineering, years of experience, and a company that keeps its ears open. Wide open.

That's right. Because long before this chain saw ever got to a drawing board, months were spent in the field with loggers trying to determine everything they wanted in a chain saw.

And now, in the new Homelite 650, they have it.

It is a chain saw that has been designed as much for the cutter as it is for the tree.

It has an all new vibration system so you get less "tingle," less fatigue and more production. Without ever losing the "feel" of the chain saw.

There's a new Softone™ dual chamber muffler that cuts noise level down. And the exhaust is directed down and away from the saw, so you don't breathe in what your chain saw breathes out.

The 650's saw dust discharge system is superior. It keeps the saw dust out of the cut...and keeps you cutting fast.

The 650 also offers as standard equipment a wrap-around handle which is designed to give you more flexibility and control.

But the new Homelite 650 is not only designed to save you wear and tear on yourself, it's also designed to save you money.

The Homelite® 650.
"A Great American Chain Saw."

In comparing it to the largest selling big timber saw, the 650 was found to have approximately 10% greater cutting power using the same size bar. 10% more cutting power means 10% more wood can be cut. 10% more wood cut means 10% more money for you. (Congratulations, you just got a nice little raise.)

Not only that, thanks to the larger fuel capacity of the 650 you can run your chain saw more economically with less time for refills. Which also means you can log more time cutting wood.

The new Homelite 650. It's simply the best chain saw you can get for your money.
